2009 Symposium Follows On Our Five Successful Previous Symposia:

Every two years the University of Wisconsin Engine Research Center holds a research symposium on a topic of current relevance to the internal combustion engine R&D community. Previous symposia include are:

- 1999 – Engine Research – The Next 50 Years
- 2003 – Developing the Virtual Engine – Current Capabilities and Future Direction
- 2005 – Low Emissions Combustion Technologies for Future IC Engines
- 2007 – Future Fuels for IC Engines

This year’s focus will be on discussion of technologies that the automotive and engine industries will need to implement to meet future vehicle and engine efficiency targets with low emissions. The Symposium features presentations by internationally recognized experts in engine research and senior executives from the major automotive/engine industries, and will bring together experts to discuss new research directions. This Symposium brings together leading worldwide researchers from industry, government labs, and academia. It provides an important opportunity for technical exchange and dialogue. Conference attendees will be able to visit the ERC laboratories and student research projects. More information and a detailed agenda is available at http://www.erc.wisc.edu.

Registration:

You may register online at http://www.erc.wisc.edu/ symposium09 (program 01324) or call Angela Chopp at UW Extension (608) 265-9585. The symposium fee of $295 ($245 before May 11th) will include breakfasts, lunches, and an evening banquet on June 10th. Electronic .pdf files of all presentations will be provided after the symposium has concluded.

Accommodations:

- The Madison Concourse Hotel and Governor’s Club,
  One W. Dayton St, Madison, WI
  To reserve a room ($124/night), call 800-356-8293 or 608-257-6000. Indicate that you will be attending the ERC Symposium (code ERC 2009 Symposium). Room requests made after May 11th will be subject to availability.

- The Best Western InnTowner,
  2424 University Ave., Madison, WI.
  To reserve a room ($92/night), call 800-258-8321 or 608-233-8778. Indicate that you will be attending the ERC Symposium (code ERC 2009 Symposium). Room requests made after May 11th will be subject to availability.

University of Wisconsin